

Outdoor Channel - Mike Duval Bio

Mike is the owner of X-Treme Toyz, a leading Southern California automotive consultation company providing a diverse one-off sense of style for many leading off road aftermarket companies. A Southern California native, Mike's extensive background makes him the perfect host for Off Road Overhaul.

As an outdoor and off-road enthusiast for over 35 years as both a down hill mountain bike racer, moto cross rider and backpacker, Mike is no stranger to the custom vehicle market. He has undertaken the incredibly difficult task of designing and building numerous award winning automotive creations over the years including being a six time Ford Motor Company Design Award Recipient as well as receiving accolades from Dodge, Jeep, and General Motors for his unique creations.

His innumerable talents also include authoring hundreds of highly detailed and technically challenging articles for some of the automotive aftermarket largest multi-media publications including print, (consumer and trade) Internet, and video. Mike's incredible off road knowledge has also seen him coordinate, write, produce and host several instructional videos for some of the off road industry's largest companies.

It is through this incredible knowledge and experience that makes Mike such a trusted and believable host. Not only can he speak to the viewer and rationally explain what is taking place on set, it is the knowledge of the off road sport as a whole that makes his voice and actions carry unprecedented weight in the off road community. He is the perfect everyday host because Mike is also one of the viewers Off-Road Overhaul directly targets.
