

Cover Up!

MGP's New JK Caliper Covers

By: Mike Duval

Photography: Mike Duval / Eric Trujillo

Everything on your rig is looking really clean.....except those dirty brake calipers. They stand out through the spokes of your cool hoops like a bad holiday tie.

So what do you do? While you could pony-up the dough for those mega-buck aftermarket calipers, your brakes work fine, so why not get the look without the cost? The crew at MGP Caliper Covers has come up with an affordable solution that will complement your rig's good looks.

We installed a front & rear set of covers on our rig in under an hour and they look great! Don't have a Jeep? MGP also makes covers for a multitude of other vehicles. The kits come complete with all necessary hardware. The instructions are straightforward, and minimal tools are required.

The kit has everything you need & definitely adds "Attitude"!

We started our install by raising the vehicle and removing the wheels.

MGP uses two different style of retaining clips, a "slot" type and a "stud" type. Our front caliper covers utilized the "slot" style.

We simply placed the cover over the caliper, slid the clips in place, and attached with the supplied nuts (photos 1-3).

Photo 1

Photo 2

Photo 3

On the rear, the covers were "stud" type. We first placed the clips over the caliper mount. Then we placed the covers over the studs and attached with the supplied hardware (photos 4-6).

Photo 4

Photo 5

Photo 6

Once all covers were installed, we re-installed the wheels and torqued the studs to spec. While our wheels didn't show much of the covers due to the spoke style, when the vehicle is in motion, everyone can see the entire cover as well as the logo due to the spinning speed, which looks really cool.

Sources:

Covers- MGP Caliper Covers www.calipercovers.com

Installation- Off Road Toyz www.sxsunlimited.com